Students who do not meet the federal financial aid statutory definition for independent status may request a Dependency Override. To be considered independent, the student must be able to document unusual or exceptional family circumstances.

According to the Department of Education, the conditions listed below do not qualify as unusual circumstances meriting a Dependency Override:

- Parents refuse to contribute to the student's education;
- Parents are unwilling to provide information on the FAFSA or for verification;
- Parents do not claim the student as a dependent for income tax purposes;
- Student demonstrates total self-sufficiency.
- Parents reside in a different state or country.

Required Documentation to Demonstrate Unusual Family Circumstances:

Note: All information submitted is kept confidential.

 - a. The circumstances that you describe must be unusual or exceptional in regard to your family situation.
 - b. Your signed statement must explain the situation in detail and provide information about both parents.
 - c. You must describe the last time you had contact with each of your parents – when, where and the nature of the contact.
- 2. Third Party Documentation: You must submit two letters from disinterested third parties that corroborate your statement.
 - a. Documentation must be from individuals or agencies that will provide unbiased and have first-hand knowledge of your unique situation and include information about both parents.

Instructions: Go to www.fafsa.gov to complete the 2018-2019 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Answer the dependency status questions as they apply to you. Assuming all the answers are “No” then indicate that you are unable to provide parental information, taking time to carefully read the conditions for not reporting parental information.

Your FAFSA will initially be rejected by the federal processing center. Once our office receives your rejected FAFSA you will be required to submit this form and the supporting documentation. If the committee approves your appeal, we will submit the override to the federal processor. If your appeal is denied, you will be instructed to go back to your FAFSA online to complete the questions regarding parental information.

Each academic year, you must go through this appeal process if your unusual or exceptional family circumstances remained the same, until you meet the statutory requirements for independent status. Transfer students who were granted a dependency override at another school must be re-approved at Buffalo State, even if they were already granted an override for the 2018-2019 academic year.

Request for Dependency Override Renewal: If you were granted a Dependency Override by Buffalo State for the 2017-2018 academic year and your unusual or exceptional family circumstances continue to exist, you must submit an updated personal statement. Your updated statement must address your current relationship with both parents and if you only state that your situation has not changed, your request will be denied.
